

Cuddle Event Covid Safety Survey Results

as of 4/15/21

Which of the following is true for you?

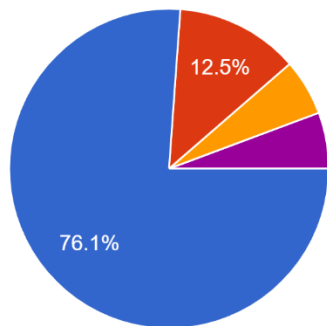

89 responses

- I've attended group cuddle events before and would like to return.
- I've never attended a group cuddle event before but would like to try.
- I'm not interested in attending group cuddle events in the future but would like to share my opinion.

I would want cuddle event attendees to affirm that they have no Covid-related symptoms, be temperature checked at the door, and wash hands upon entry.

This survey was created to get opinions from our community about their Covid safety as part of our broader research to determine if starting events in July 2021 is possible.

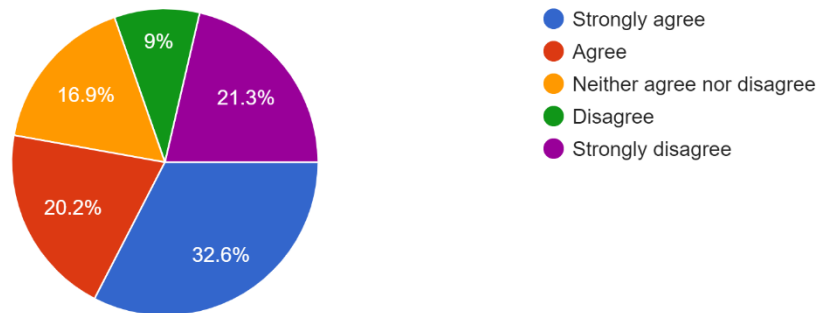

I would only attend a cuddle event if it were outdoors.

I would attend a cuddle event only if it's required that all attendees prove that they are vaccinated.

I would feel comfortable attending a cuddle event that allows non-vaccinated people to show a recent negative Covid test result. (This question acknowledges that there are barriers - including being allergic to the vaccine - that prevent some people from getting one.)

I think that masks should be required at cuddle events.
